NOTES.

The small amount of the circulation of the Central Bank is owing to a peculiar provision in its charter, which restricts the issues "to the aggregate of specie and bills of other chartered banks of this State, and the bills of the Bank of the United States, in its vaults."

The Bank of the State of Georgia, at Savannah, has offices at Augusta, Milledgeville, Washington, Eatonton, Greensborough, Macon, and Athens.

The Bank of Darien is believed to have offices at Savannah, Milledgeville, and Macon; and the Marine and Fire Insurance Company, at Savannah, an office at Macon.
