NEW YORK.—G 1.

Annual report of the superintendent of the banking department.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
Bank Department, Albany, January 1, 1861.

To the speaker of the assembly:

SIR: I have the honor herewith to transmit to the legislature my annual report, as required by chapter 164, Laws of 1851.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JAMES M. COOK,
Superintendent.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
Bank Department, Albany, December 10, 1860.

The superintendent of the banking department, in accordance with the provisions of section 11 of the "Act to organize a bank department," has the honor to submit, for the consideration of the legislature, the following report:

The books of the bank department close, for a final balance, on the 30th day of September in each year, the fiscal year ending with that day. All statements in the annual report of the superintendent are based upon the actual position of the various, general as well as individual, accounts as they stand on that particular day.

The position of the banks in this State at the date above referred to was one of undoubted strength. The business of the country moved with more than usual steadiness. The harvest had been gathered, and it was one unexampled both in quantity and quality. The demand was good for all the great staples that usually find their way to market through our State facilities for their transportation; and prices were fully remunerative to the producers.

On the day above mentioned, the sharpest or most cautious financier in this country, looking at the condition of the monetary affairs of this State, (with the eyes of a financier,) could not discern, from past experience, the first indication of any revulsion in our money marts.

All calculations, based upon the experience of the past, indicated an auspicious and successful business for the fall of 1860.

In less than sixty days from the 1st of October, the astounding spectacle is presented for the consideration of the people of these United States, of a suspension of specie payments by a large number of the banks located in the southern States belonging to this confederacy; and a general partnership, in the results to follow the action of these banks, was entered into by those located in the city of New York, (the great money centre of this country,) for the avowed purpose of sustaining the business interests of the commercial men of that city, as well as for the protection of the banks themselves.

The suspension of 1857 puzzled wiser men than the superintendent to discover its necessity or cause; and the present revulsion in our financial affairs arises with every substantial element in abundance to prevent its existence.

The wisdom of the banks in the city of New York, in combining their interests, and extending their accommodations, cannot be questioned; but the causes that produced the necessity of their action cannot be explained but by the force of a single word—panic—skillfully and adroitly manufactured for political and speculative purposes and uses. To what extent and how ruinous the results of this action may be is beyond human ken. Yet, to the capitalist, the merchant, and the producing classes of this State, it is none the less disastrous than a revulsion resulting either from war, pestilence, or famine.

It is not the intention of the superintendent to discuss at length the causes that have produced the financial difficulties at present existing, but simply to place his individual opinion on record, that if the capitalists, the business men, and the producing classes of this State are to be subjected to almost yearly revulsions in our money markets, it is time for them to seek for some remedy; at least for political monetary panics, however diversified or extended the cause or causes may be that produce them.

Without endeavoring to point out the remedy for existing difficulties, the superintendent may be excused for saying that capital, whether it assumes the shape of land, labor, stocks, or money, can only find stability in its value to its possessor, in the permanency as well as the vigorous enforcement of the laws by which we are governed as a people, whether administered by the State or the national government.

The permanency of our laws is secondary in its operation to their vigorous and prompt enforcement as they exist. The adaptation and employment of capital to existing laws is proverbial, even if oppressive, and is a sure protection from comparative annihilation, whilst a failure to execute them is fatal to its value under all circumstances.

These periodical revulsions may be a condition of the form of government under which we live. If so, it is a serious difficulty and a drawback to our prosperity and onward march as a nation. The founders of our government left a single legacy to their successors as a remedy for all difficulties that might arise, and of whatever nature, viz: the prompt and vigorous enforcement of the Constitution and the laws. A bad law enforced is better than a good one unexecuted. The one admits of amendment and correction; the other leaves the body politic to certain death from inanition. The one is a certainty, and capital can and will accommodate itself to its exactions; the other is an uncertainty, which utterly destroys and annihilates it.

In presenting the following references to the various tables accompanying this report, the superintendent has endeavored to show the balances of those tables, when practicable and when they are not mere details. This has been done to enable the reader to reach a general knowledge of the condition of the department without an absolute examination of the tables themselves.

Table No. 1 presents the names, capital, and location of the banking associations formed during the past fiscal year, ending September 30, 1860. Of these associations, three, viz: the Brooklyn Bank, the Chautauqua County Bank, and the Tanners' Bank, Catskill, have, at the expiration of their charters, associated themselves under the general bank law, and continue the business under their former names, and at their respective localities. The increased capital of these banks is $150,000 more than that employed under their several charters.

This table also exhibits the amount and description of securities deposited by the new associations, amounting to $553,850, upon which $512,421 of circulating notes have been issued. It also presents the names of five individual bankers who have commenced the business of banking during the past year, their locations and the amount of capital of each, as shown by their reports of September 29, 1860, amounting in the aggregate to $140,000. Also, the kinds and amount of securities deposited by them, viz: $124,244. From this amount should be deducted $10,000 of New York State 6 per cent. stock, deposited by H. G. Hotchkiss & Company's Bank, which received no notes until after the close of the fiscal year; leaving the actual amount deposited by individual bankers $114,244, upon which circulating notes have been issued amounting to $112,919.

This table also presents the aggregate of the securities held by this department, and also the amount of cash held in trust for the redemption of outstanding notes of closing incorporated banks. The aggregate amount held as security for the circulating notes issued to the free banks of this State, including cash, is $30,195,462 12; upon which currency has been issued amounting to $28,841,416. It is worthy of note, that while the securities held by this department for free banks have risen from $28,068,336 92, on the 1st of October, 1859, to $30,195,462 12, on the 1st of October, 1860, being an increase of $2,127,125 20, that this increase has been in the most available securities held by this department. In other words, the department now holds $1,292,386 more of the stocks of the State of New York, and $1,256,500 of United States stocks, being $2,548,886 of these descriptions of stock, while it holds $325,449 less of bonds and mortgages, $20,000 less of Arkansas State stock, $73,483 34 less of Illinois State stock, and $2,828 46 less of cash, than on the 1st of October, 1859.

The superintendent has no hesitation in saying that the currency of the free banks and bankers of this State never was better secured than at the present time, in the kinds of securities held by the department. It may not be amiss at this point to state that, while the opinion of the superintendent in relation to the reception of bonds and mortgages remains the same as to their availability for the redemption of bank notes, it would appear that the experience of 1857 has taught, in a measure, the same lesson to the bankers which the reports of the superintendent have heretofore failed to inculcate. The amount of bonds and mortgages held by the bank department on the 1st of October, 1857, was $7,856,231 59, while the amount on the 1st of October, 1860, was $5,851,463 79, showing a decrease in that peculiar security of $2,004,767 80. This, decrease has not been sudden and unexpected, but every quarterly balance, from the former date, has shown a decrease in those securities over and above those received in this office.

This table also shows the amount of securities held for notes issued to incorporated banks, under the acts of 1848 and 1849, amounting to $30,150, and the amount of cash held for incorporated banks closing their business under the act of 1857, by trustees, viz: $56,201 21.

It also exhibits the fact that the superintendent holds in trust for the Buffalo Trust Company, $100,000 in bonds and mortgages, and for the United States Trust Company, New York, $100,000 in Auburn city stock, making the total amount of securities held in the bank department, on the 30th September, 1860, for all purposes, $30,481,813 33, being an increase during the last fiscal year of $2,156,110 38.

The number of banks, banking associations, and individual bankers actually doing business in this State on the 30th day of September last was 306, and 37 were either closing their own affairs, or are insolvent, and their business is being closed by this department, leaving 343 open bank accounts upon the books of this office.

The entire emission of bank notes from the bank department, including that of incorporated banks, banking associations, and individual bankers, is $38,034,800, against $36,581,276, in 1859, being an increase during the past fiscal year of $1,453,524.

The absolute increase of the currency in actual circulation of the banks of this State during the past fiscal year has been $3,788,159, it having risen from $27,970,968 to $31,759,127, as shown by their respective quarterly reports. This increase of actual circulation of the banks has been called into use by the bountiful increase of our agricultural productions and the general prosperity of the productive forces of the country, and the necessity of sending our products to market. As winter approaches, a portion of the avenues by which the products of the industry of the people who find the thoroughfares of our own State the quickest and most economical route to market for their surplus productions, the volume of currency will undoubtedly fall, perhaps, lower than the amount in use at the close of the fiscal year of 1859.

Table No. 2 presents the amount of the capital of each banking association and individual banker doing business in this State, in detail. Also, the amount and kind of securities held by the superintendent for each banking association and individual banker, and the amount of circulating notes issued by this department and outstanding, September 30, 1860.

Table No. 3 presents, in detail, the names of all the closing and insolvent banking associations and individual bankers, their outstanding circulation, and the amount of cash held by the superintendent for its redemption.

Table No. 4 exhibits the names and location of all the incorporated banks transacting business in this State, the amount of their respective capitals, the amount of circulating notes they are authorized to issue, the actual amount of such on hand and in circulation, and the period at which each of their charters expires. Also the names of the three insolvent incorporated banks, their capitals, the amount of their respective circulations at the time of their failure, and their present outstanding circulation.

Table No. 5 presents the names of the incorporated banks whose charters have expired, the amount of circulating notes in their hands at the expiration of their charters, and the amount now outstanding.

It is worthy of note that, while all of the incorporated banks whose charters have expired, with the exception of four, in the interior of the State, have continued their business as associations, and have retired from circulation, during the past ten years, nearly $12,000,000 of notes, which vacuum in our currency has been readily filled by secured notes, issued under the provisions of the general bank law—

The total outstanding circulation of the expired incorporated banks, on the 30th of September, 1859, was	$1,805,922 00
On the 30th of September, 1860	1,563,595 00
Returned and destroyed during the year	242,327 00

Table No. 6 presents the names of all the banks in this State, whose notes are redeemed by the superintendent at par, and the names of the banks who act as his agent in such redemptions; the amount of money on deposit for that purpose, and the amount of outstanding circulation; also the date at which the notes will cease to be redeemed by him. This table presents the names of other banks whose notes are redeemed at par by the superintendent, and where redeemed; also the amount of cash on deposit for the redemption of their outstanding notes.

Table No. 7 presents the names of all the insolvent banks whose securities have been sold and converted into money by the superintendent, for the redemption of their circulating notes, where redeemed, and the time when the notes cease to be redeemed.

Table No. 8 exhibits the names of all the closing banks in this State which had given a bond to redeem all their outstanding circulation, previous to the passage of chapter 236 of the laws of 1859. The provisions of that act compel all banks proposing to close their business to deposit the money, instead of a bond, in the hands of the superintendent, for the redemption of their outstanding circulation. It also shows the name and residence of the principal in each bond, to whom application must be made for the redemption of the notes; the sureties to such bond, and the time of the expiration of the same, after which the notes outstanding will be worthless.

Table No. 9 presents the number, denominations, and amount of all mutilated bank notes of the incorporated banks, banking associations, and individual bankers, that have been counted and destroyed in the bank department by burning, during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1860. An examination of the amount in dollars, and the number and denomination of notes, will indicate pretty clearly where the wear and tear of circulation, as well as the amount, is found. The total number of notes burned was 2,152,493, and the amount in dollars was $7,873,209.

Table No. 10 presents the state of the treasury, in account with the bank department.

At the commencement of the fiscal year, October 1, 1859, the amount advanced for the expenses of the department, was		$15,813 09
The expenses of the free banks during the past year, was		24,415 18
Of the incorporated banks		3,500 45
		43,728 72
There has been collected during the same time from free banks	$21,838 89
From incorporated banks	4,019 95
		25,858 84
Balance due the treasury October 1, 1860		17,869 88
The actual expenses of the department during the past fiscal year were		$27,915 63
During the fiscal year of 1859		26,999 80
Increase of expenses for the year 1860		915 83

This increase has arisen in the advanced price paid for printing the quarterly reports, under the provisions of chapter 252 of the laws of 1859, entitled "An act in relation to the publication of legal notices."

There is a discrepancy in the account between the treasury and the bank department of $500. The amount is sufficient to call attention to the manner in which it was created. The legislature of 1859 appropriated the sum of $500 as extra compensation to the then deputy treasurer, to be paid from the bank fund. That fund being under the charge of the superintendent, and being a trust fund, created to pay an existing liability, payment of the appropriation was refused by him. The legislature of 1860 again passed the appropriation, and directed it to be charged to the general expenses of the bank department, stating it was for extra compensation for services connected with that department. The act creating the bank department expressly makes it a misdemeanor, punishable with a fine or imprisonment, for the superintendent, or any clerk or person employed in his office, to take or receive any extra compensation, directly or indirectly.

The services for which this amount was claimed was for registering in the treasurer's office all transfers of stocks and mortgages from the superintendent's office, and notifying the bank of the transfer from whose account it was made; for which service the treasurer receives the sum of one thousand dollars per annum, paid by the bank department, under the provisions of the act of 1857, requiring such registry.

Under these circumstances, the amount was paid upon the warrant of the comptroller, and charged to the miscellaneous expenses of the bank department. The superintendent not believing it right to recognize the assessment of the banks indirectly, when there is an express provision by statute that it shall not be done directly, by payment of extra compensation to any person employed in his department, declined to admit the charge; thus making a discrepancy of $500 between the treasury and the bank department accounts. The present superintendent will refuse his assent to the payment of all extra allowances for any services in the transaction of any business with his department, either directly or indirectly.

Table No. 11 exhibits the names and compensation of the employés of the department. There has been no change in the office during the past year. The duties of each person in his vocation in the office, have been performed to the satisfaction of the superintendent.

Table No. 12 exhibits the condition of the bank fund, its receipts and disbursements for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1860. The receipts, including the balance on hand at the commencement of the past year, amounted to $50,868 87, while the disbursements amounted to only $8,586 09, leaving a balance on hand, on the 30th of September last, of $42,282 78.

An examination of the condition of the fund, in the same table, will show that on the 1st of February, 1861, there will be due and payable for the stock originally issued the sum of $100,047 35. The amount of means on hand, and the contributions of the banks to the fund, for the 1st of January next, being only $83,561 08, as shown by the estimate for the succeeding year, while the payments amount to $106,249 19, leaves the superintendent with a deficiency of $22,688 11 on the 1st of February next. The only method of meeting this deficiency is for the superintendent to make a new loan, or procure an extension of that amount for one year, after which the fund will be abundantly able to repay this amount, and all its other liabilities. A portion of the amount due on the 1st of February, 1861, is held by the commissioners of the canal fund, and is invested by them as a sinking fund. The commissioners have agreed with the superintendent to extend sufficient of the amount due to enable the fund to meet all its other engagements.

Unless some unforseen accident arises, the fund will be able to meet all its engagements, and at its close in 1866 a surplus of some $60,000, or more, will be found to its credit in the treasury.

Table No. 13 presents the increase and decrease of the banking capital employed in this State, and also the amount of currency issued from this department and outstanding, and the yearly fluctuations of the same for the last ten years.

Table No. 14 exhibits the aggregate amounts of liabilities and resources of all the banks, banking associations, and individual bankers in this State, as shown by their quarterly reports made to this department, in the month of June, during the past ten years.

Table No. 15 presents the aggregate debts and liabilities, and the means and resources of all the banks, banking associations, and individual bankers transacting business in this State on the 10th of December, 1859, 31st of March, 1860, 30th of June, 1860, and 29th of September, 1860, compiled from their quarterly reports made to this department at the dates above mentioned, being the quarterly reports for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1860, according to the provisions of chapter 164 of the laws of 1851.

Tables Nos. 16, 17, 18, and 19 present, in detail, the condition of each bank, banking association, and individual banker, as shown by their several quarterly reports for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1860.

There have been received from the Metropolitan Police Department of the city of New York, during the last fiscal year, $50,663 counterfeit notes, and four steel and copper plates, all of which have been destroyed under the provisions of chapter 236 of the laws of 1859. Also plate 5, 5, 5, 10, of the late incorporated Merchants and Mechanics' Bank of Troy, has been destroyed.

The time for the redemption of the outstanding certificates of the Farmers' Bank of Onondaga having expired, the money in the hands of the superintendent, amounting to $1,269 10, has been paid into the treasury of the State.

The amount of securities transferred from this department, and countersigned by the treasurer during the past year, has been, of

Stocks	$1,651,959 71
Bonds and mortgages	508,946 00
Total	2,160,905 71

The condition of our monetary affairs, and the general pressure upon not only the banks and merchants, but also upon the producing classes, will without doubt lead to some attempts to bring before the legislature individual remedies for our present condition in the shape of amendments to our banking laws.

The superintendent, under the present circumstances, may be excused, therefore, for reiterating opinions heretofore expressed in a former report, that the amendment of any general law for the employment of capital should be approached with care and acted upon by the legislature with great caution. The amendment of a general law acts upon every locality in the State alike, while it is usually pressed upon your consideration by the particular one from which its emanates. While, perhaps, it would be beneficial in a single instance, it might possibly destroy or derange a whole system which had grown up under a general law.

The superintendent believes that the people of the State are satisfied with the provisions of the present banking law; at least, no indication that a change is desired has reached him. The banks resumed specie payments after the suspension of 1857, without the passage of a single act interfering with the provisions of the general bank law; and any attempt either to aid or restrict them, beyond the provisions of that law as it now exists, can only be productive of evil. The present panic and consequent derangement of the business of our citizens is one that no legislation in relation to banking can allay or control.

The evils of the present condition of the monetary affairs in our State can only be overcome by individual exertion and courage. It is one of the strangest phases of the present money panic, that it has produced no change in the usual transactions of the bank department.

At the time of closing this report, December 10, (as required by the provisions of chapter 437 of the laws of 1859,) no sign of the actual existence of any change in our monetary affairs, from their usual condition, is shown by the books of this department. This fact alone is one of great encouragement. It at least adds to the hopes of the superintendent that we shall soon resume our wonted activity and prosperity.

In presenting the tables and explanations of them in this report, the superintendent believes he has complied with all the requirements of the subdivisions of section 11 of the act to "organize a bank department," passed in 1851, and the amendments thereto, except subdivision three, the words of which are, "to suggest any amendment to the laws relative to banking by which the system may be improved, and the security of bill-holders and depositors may be increased."

During the five years that the present incumbent of the office of superintendent of the banking department has held that position, his experience has taught him the value of the present system.

Its organization, as to the details of the department, requires no further legislation. The last act of the legislature, touching the general interest of the banks, was passed April 11, 1859. It was passed in accordance with the request of the superintendent in his annual report; and those who have read his previous reports know that no hesitation existed on his part to "suggest any amendments" which he might have thought beneficial, either to the system, the method in which the department should be held to a strict responsibility, or that should place our currency upon a foundation entitling it to the confidence of the community.

He has full confidence in the present system of banking as pursued in this State. Neither does he believe, particularly under the present condition of the business of the country, that either the people of the State or the banks require any change in our present laws in relation to banking; and, in the language of his report of last year, "the superintendent most respectfully submits this report to the legislature without any suggestion for an alteration or amendment to our present banking laws."

All which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES M. COOK,
Superintendent.
