

FREE BANKING.

The annexed tables show that there are seventeen banks continuing to do business under the law of 1855, with at least fifty thousand dollars worth of securities at the market value in New York,—seven banks that are winding up and redeeming their circulation with securities remaining in this department, and seven which have withdrawn their securities and given bond to redeem their outstanding circulation, under the provisions of section 52 of the general banking law of 1855.

The seventeen banks under the law have a circulation of.....	$1,076,984
The seven winding up have a circulation of.....	54,411

Making an aggregate of circulation for which there is over ten per cent. excess of securities in this department, of.....	$1,181,395
To which add the circulation of the seven banks that have withdrawn their securities and given bond.....	28,801
Makes the total circulation.....	$1,160,196

The total circulation of the Free Banks on the 31st of October, 1858, as shown in my report to the Legislature, was.....	$1,282,880
Present circulation as above.....	1,160,196
Decrease .....	$73,684

Since my last report the securities of the Bank of Gosport have been sold in New York, and the circulating notes redeemed at par, except a small balance not yet presented for redemption. With this exception there has been no protest filed for non-payment of any of the notes of the Free Banks, and they continue to possess, as they deserve, the confidence of the business community.
